"Implications for Sustainable Development: The Recent UN High Level Report on Delivering Development"

Monday, March 19, 2007, 5:30-8:00 pm
Glynn Amphitheater (G4), Schneider Building

Prof. Roger Maconick currently teaches Planning, Implementation and Evaluation. He has served as a development professional with the UN system, working with the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) in Laos, Iran, Ethiopia and the Central African Republic. He assisted in the implementation of UNDP's evaluation office and designed UNDP's monitoring and evaluation system. While employed by the UN secretariat, Dr. Maconick introduced impact evaluation to the work of the UN General Assembly and managed two series of such evaluations. He worked with the UN Office of Internal Oversight, carrying out inspections of UN agencies and advising on evaluation issues.

Prof. Jehan Raheem was the founder and director of the office of evaluation at the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and served as UNDP Resident Representative in Burma. He is a specialist in the United Nations system and in technical assistance.
