The COEX program is fortunate to have the support of the Slifka Foundation. It is through the Slifka funds that we can offer travel assistance to students carrying out their practicum / field work.

Students will receive their round trip air ticket paid for by the program. If a student should receive outside funding (i.e. PON, Boren, etc.) for travel, they will not be eligible for COEX assistance, nor will those student who are sponsored (Fulbright, World Bank, etc.).

The process that students need to follow in order to receive their travel assistance is as follows:

1. Submit their proposal (at least a strong draft) to their advisor.
2. Submit a tentative travel itinerary to the program.
3. When the advisor has given the okay, the program will work with the student to secure and purchase a round trip air ticket.
